WE NOMINATE

Charles William Caldwell Jr. and Richard Whiting Colman Jr., coach and student, respectively, at Williams College in the early 1930's and coaching associates for two decades, who—days before Princeton and Rutgers enter upon their 89th year of football—are writing a new chapter into football history. This week from Nassau Hall suddenly came the statement by President Robert F. Goheen that the 55-year old Caldwell, one of the country's great coaches, is being granted a medical leave of absence for the 1957 season to permit him to recuperate from a "lingering infection which in medical opinion could conceivably lead to complications." The same announcement brought word that Colman, who will be 43 on Armistice Day, will act as head coach until Caldwell's return.

It was in Williamstown, Mass., in September, 1933, that Colman, a graduate of Montclair (N.J.) Academy and Caldwell, already a veteran mentor at age 31, began their partnership. The former was an eager freshman back and "a mighty good one," according to Caldwell. After two years of outstanding backfield play, Colman found it increasingly difficult to follow the ball because of faulty vision. Caldwell shifted him to guard, where speed and crisp blocking earned national recognition for the Tigers' interim coach. In 1937 Colman, president of his Williams class throughout his undergraduate career and an award-winner in six different branches of athletics, joined Caldwell's staff at the freshman level.

As Caldwell's approach to football began to attract more and more attention in gridiron circles, Colman moved up the ladder with him, taking over the position of line coach and gaining added experience in basketball and lacrosse. When the time came in 1945 for Caldwell, now president of the Princeton Class of 1925, to return to Princeton to revive a revered alumni coaching tradition, Colman was a fixture in the Caldwell scheme of things. In 1946 an outgunned Princeton team, actually rated a 33-point underdog by the "spread-makers," made coast-to-coast headlines by thumping a supposedly unbeatable Pennsylvania team. In post-game press conferences, Caldwell jubilantly stated that Colman's scouting reports were a major factor in the 17-14 upset.

Caldwell, 1950's "Coach of the Year" and in 1952 recipient of the New York Touchdown Club's periodic award for "meritorious contributions to football over the years," has described Colman as an "astute football theorist" and attributes a large measure of Princeton's recent successes to his skill in developing linemen. Over the years the two have differed markedly on only one score and never in any degree of seriousness. Their divergences have been in the sphere of politics. The head coach leans towards Republican standard-bearers, while Colman, chairman of the Borough's Advisory Committee on Parking, is an avowed Democrat, a former Borough Councilman and this fall a candidate for re-election on the Democratic ticket.

For their distinguished service to football; for effectively demonstrating that coaching is as much of a team proposition as is the sport itself; for personifying a philosophy of coaching which recognizes that football, or any sport, is a vital but subordinate part of the total educational process; they are our nominees for

ONE FOR THE BOOKS.
Or, A Most Unusual Day. Few college graduates become president of their alma mater—or any other major institution of higher learning—well before their 40th birthday. And certainly a good many fewer experience the kind of day Dr. Robert F. Goheen experienced on Monday, which had been scheduled as the 38-year-old Princeton alumnus' first "regular" academic day in the president's office at Princeton University.

Dr. Goheen started the day by granting a medical "leave of absence" to Charles W. Caldwell Jr., head football coach of the Tigers since 1945 who was about to launch his 13th season in Palmer Stadium on Saturday (for details, turn to page 17). The president's announcement concerning the alumnus coach, with an unofficial "lifetime tenure," startled the Princeton Community in particular and the sports world in general.

Attending his first faculty meeting as University president rather than a member of the faculty, Dr. Goheen underscored his support of the Princeton family by accusing the Rev. Hugh Halton of "irresponsible attacks upon the intellectual integrity of faculty members." The newly-installed Princeton leader reported an unprecedented action of the University's board of trustees, which had directed the University to withdraw its recognition of the Roman Catholic chaplain (see full story, page 3).

By way of concluding Monday, which also included a number of "strictly routine and unsung" matters, Dr. Goheen addressed a meeting of the Whig-Clifosophic Society, America's oldest collegiate debating organization and sponsor of recent controversies, Princeton's dial telephone system, featuring a WALnut exchange, will go into operation December 1—as determined early in the summer—despite a four-day nationwide strike of telephone equipment installers last week. When the walkout first occurred, a delay was considered possible for the new system here, but a sudden quick strike settlement eliminated any postponement.

A spokesman for Bell Telephone Company said it might become necessary for a few Western Electric employees "to work around the clock" for several days to insure completion of the big installation job on schedule. However, everything definitely will be finished in ample time to meet the promised December 1 deadline, he emphasized.

of which the president is a former trustee. Thus ended his first "regular" academic day, which was about as "irregular" as one is likely to be in many a year.

A CURIOUS WEEK
For Trees, That Is. As everyone who lives here knows full well, and as many visitors have remarked from time to time, Princeton is a town dominated by trees—with one of America's few business districts boasting a liberal number of shade trees. All of the greenery gives Princetonians reason to pride themselves in the rustic look of their town.

This week has been a curious week for Princeton's beloved trees. To begin with, Borough officials reported that only one tree was lost to disease during the summer months, despite the record-breaking dry spell. In a second breath, they announced that it will be necessary to destroy almost 200 trees near midtown, or double a previously announced figure, for the sake of progress.

The officials admitted some trees may show the ill effects of summer's extreme heat at a later date, but they are doing everything they can to offset such a possibility. They are feeding a great many tired-looking trees, and they are preparing to plant quite a few new ones. In fact, residents who desire trees on their property and are willing to pay a nominal fee for them can obtain good ones at wholesale prices through the Borough Engineer's Office, which will approve locations for them.

As for the "fallen 200," they are being toppled between Bayard Lane and John Street to open adequate space for the construction of Avalon Place, forthcoming link between the two main arteries. These trees, cut in eight-to-10-foot lengths and excellent for firewood, will be given to any residents asking for them, while some 2,100 cubic yards of excavation also will be removed, the topsoil going to the YMCA for use in its current construction work on adjacent property. Disposal of the wood and dirt probably will lead to blacktopping of the new street before December 1.

Attention: Football Fans!

In a carefully planned move to improve traffic and parking conditions at Princeton University's home football games, representatives of the University Athletic Association, Borough Police, Township Police and State Police this week announced procedures which will be instituted at the Princeton-Rutgers game on Saturday. Members of each of the agencies, who conferred together Tuesday afternoon, agreed the changes will be welcomed by many an Interstate motorist.

Spectators driving to Palmer Stadium contest from the western section of town or other points to the west will be urged to use University Place and turn into the campus on College Road. Thru traffic to Washington Road will not be permitted on College, but cars will be routed to parking spaces in the lot next to Baker Rink and on Goldie and "55" Fields, just east of the rink.

Many autos approaching the stadium from the south on Washington will be directed to take a left turn just before the pond where Washington and Goldie intersect, thereby routing them to heretofore-unused Goldie and "55." With the new parking areas able to accommodate 1,500-plus cars, or more than one-third the normal vehicular crowd, officials feel Nassau Street traffic and conditions east of the Stadium will be greatly improved.

PERSONALITIES

John H. Smith, 16 Witherspoon Street, capable chief of the Borough Police Department who, on October 4, will observe his 50th anniversary as a Princeton law enforcer, Chief Smith — then Special Officer Smith — joined the Borough force in 1927 and worked his way up through the ranks. After becoming a patrolman on April 10, 1928, he was appointed acting lieutenant on March 24, 1936, took over as lieutenant on September 15 of that year, moved up to acting chief on October 3, 1954, and earned his present title on January 3, 1955.

Helen C. Krause of Cranbury, head of Princeton Hospital's all-important Anesthesia Department who was honored this week as she announced her retirement following a decade of service at the hospital (see story, page 10). Romancing Miss Krause and the high points of her duty here were the occasions when she administered anesthetics to the delivery of the only two sets of triplets in the hospital's history — on April 11, 1931, and on May 1, 1932, and the second trio, all boys, born last Election Day.

Joseph M. Alagazi Jr., of Trenton popular teacher of English at Princeton High who this week-end will officially begin his 12th consecutive year as leader of one of PHS' most demanding "after-school" activities, varsity football (see story, page 18) Coach Jingoll who seeks to develop athletic the same precision and clear thinking that are required in his classroom, will be watching his athletes on Saturday, expectancy of something which can be understood in any kind of English — "the not in this plinkin campaign's lidder."

ROUND-UP

Another new number of the regular TOWN TOPICS' family of features is initiated this week on page 4 — devoted to the Princeton weather scene, a weekly box set after readers a quick glimpse of local weather conditions and will be highlighted by a credentialed four-line poem... Start sending in your poetic contributions at once, using real or "poet" depending on the calibre of verse. Speaking of the weather, it has been changeable this past week but not bad enough to cause an extraordinary outbreak of early-fall colds, and Asian flu is still not a Princeton problem, with fewer than 15 cases reported to date.

Forty-five Borough property-owners, or exactly half the total of Township counterparts, will be given an opportunity to appear before the Country Tax Board on October 4 and register their complaints regarding this year's bills... nothing new to report on Grand Union's interest in building a supermarket on North Harrison Street except that no one has voiced an objection to the proposal so far and only one official has questioned the desirability of such a project so close to a firehouse... lots of street work going on these days, what with the Borough paving two municipal parking lots and John Street and the Township paving Hillside Road and a portion of Guyot Avenue and preparing to open bids at 5 p.m. Monday on the widening and drainage of much of Snowden Lane, a state-aid project.

"Wett' Zarg" of the Borough Police rates an apology from TOWN TOPICS, it seems, since a previous report in this column apparently was only half complete — while the patrolman in question actually did "book" several juveniles after the fact and shouted the western name in his direction. It is now reported that an earlier series of disorderly acts on the street prompted the arrests later on... incidentally, Borough Sgt. Peter McCrohan, officer-in-charge of juvenile matters, this week is attending the 3rd Institute on Corrections, a two-day conference at Rutgers... Township police will get "shot" along with all other Township employees, as soon as vaccine can be supplied for a municipality-sponsored anti-Asian flu program.

McCart Theatre's lobby will be decorated for "Walts" of the "Toreadors" with a group of abstract paintings by Frank Steele, Princeton undergraduate en-

BOILING POINT

Reached with Halton Ouster. For close to three years, an ever-warm "feud" between the Rev. Hugh Halton and Princeton University has edged toward the boiling point. This week, it suddenly reached that point and began "spilling" over. Somebody seemed bound to get hurt by the overflow.

Dr. Robert F. Goheen, who became University president on July 1, clarified Princeton's position in a statement to the faculty Monday afternoon. "The University has withdrawn its recognition of Father Halton," the president said. "The courtesies and privileges which have been extended to him as they are to all denominational chaplains have been terminated. He is no longer entitled to claim he has any official standing in Princeton University."

Father Halton, Roman Catholic chaplain for Princeton students and director of the Aquinas Foundation since 1952, had disclosed his ouster 36 hours prior to Dr. Goheen's statement. During a pair of sermons Sunday morning, the Dominican priest informed members of his congregation that he learned of the situation last week, which he was refused permission to announce forthcoming Foundation services in the University calendar.

Dr. Goheen told the faculty that the University's board of trustees had tried unsuccessfully since June, 1956, to remedy "the strained relations he (Father Halton) has occasioned" by directing communications to the priest's superiors. Failing in these efforts, the board decided this week, with the concurrence of Dr. Goheen and his predecessor, Dr. Harold W. Dodds, to bar the situation last week, which he was refused permission to announce forthcoming Foundation services in the University calendar.

Quiet Start, Noisy Finish. While Father Halton arrived on the Princeton scene some five years ago, his open "controversy" with the University did not start to the fore until April, 1955. At that time, he began a series of attacks against the teachings of Walter T. Stace, philosophy professor emeritus. He called the philosopher's treatise "atheistic" and elaborated on this theme through the spring of 1955 until Professor Stace's retirement.

Subsequently, the Catholic priest used his pulpit to criticize Professor Emeritus George El-dredge, the publication by the Princeton University Press of "Morals and Medicine" and the on-campus Alpha. His speech in April, 1956. On Sunday, he reportedly said, "I have a letter in my hand (written last spring) from President Dodds (stating) that the only thing that would make him happy was my immediate removal."

In denouncing Father Halton's allegations of the past three years, Dr. Goheen explained: "Under claims of advancing the pursuit of truth, he has resorted to irresponsible attacks upon the intellectual integrity of faculty members. The nature and the manner of his charges can only be recognized as designed to foment a highly motivated form of controversy and to provoke hostility and disrespect where friendship and good long existed."

His accusations in the past

RELATIONS SEVERED: The Rev. Hugh Halton, director of the Aquinas Foundation until this week, has been informed that he may no longer use the University calendar to announce events or University rooms for meetings, and that the Foundation will no longer be listed in issues of the Princeton catalogue while he is director.

year have broadened into large, unsubstantiated charges of malfeasance against the administration of the University and against a number of other respected and stable institutions as well. For tactics of this sort no university devoted to freedom of rational inquiry and debate need make a move. This is particularly so in this case where the offending individual has managed to alienate from himself many of the Catholic students and faculty members who look to him for guidance. It was to tend them that he was received by the University.

"Qualified" Priest Sought. Dr. Goheen told the faculty the University has informed the appropriate authorities of the Roman Catholic Church that it no longer finds it proper to extend to Father Halton its recognition and privileges. At the same time, we have expressed our sincere hope that another priest qualified to fulfill the responsibilities implied in his University association will be assigned to minister to the Catholics in the University.

The Princeton president (himself the husband of a Catholic wife) stressed that "we respect the faith and the Church of those who are Catholics. We desire for them every opportunity to be strengthened in the tenets of their religion. We hope they will be accorded a chaplain who will minister to them with firm devotion and that patient understanding that a free society requires of all reasonable men."

Concluding his pointed statement, Dr. Goheen said, "The grounds for the University's action are sound and require no defense. At the same time, the University has sought, by every reasonable means, to avoid precipitating a public controversy over this matter, because of the exaggeration of the public standings which would inevitably attend it. This is not an issue of academic freedom. The University has not set itself against the Catholic Church. The one point of issue is whether Father Halton is entitled to retain the privileges which the University had, of its own will, extended to him. "I would reaffirm the essential importance of intelligent debate in our free society. It is hard, however, to see how heated controversy on the views and status of this priest could serve any good purpose. It is my earnest hope that the members of the Princeton faculty will exercise a high degree of restraint and patience in the weeks ahead and avoid provoking controversy on issues which are not involved."

"Good Material" Provided. Pursued by newsmen looking for comment on Dr. Cohen's statement following its release to the press, Father Hallon remained "unavailable." On Sunday, however, he maintained that the board, in carrying out the board of trustees' decision, had discarded reason for "bigotry or at best a confused sentimentality."

Apparently conditioned for heated issues and unbothered by this week's boiling-point developments, Father Hallon prepared to continue his anti-Princeton campaign from the Foundation pulpit, probably this Sunday. The United States' action, he assured his undergraduate audience last weekend, "provides good material for the defense of the faith in the coming months."

END OF THE LINE

High School Limits Students. Due to the rapidly increasing school population in Princeton, the Princeton Borough Board of Education voted at its meeting Tuesday night to terminate long-standing arrangements with three "sending districts"—Lawrence, Franklin and Plainsboro Township. The board stressed that this action is being taken reluctantly and regrettably, but that it sees no alternative.

The grades affected in Lawrence Township are 10, 11, and 12. The termination will become active with the end of the 1958-59 school year, so that no new pupils will be admitted from Lawrence Township after June 30, 1959. For Franklin Township, the grades affected are grades nine through 12, with September 1, 1961, as the deadline. From Plainsboro, grades seven and eight are involved. The deadline here is September 1, 1960. The board emphasized that notice is being given this far in advance to enable the three townships to expand their own facilities.

Superintendent B. Woodhull Davis said in his report that this year's opening rated as one of the finest the high school had ever had. In spite of the record number of students, 1338, every student was in his proper class by 8:45 the first morning. Witherspoon School registered 321 students, and Nassau Street School closed 664.

Mr. Davis reported that the traffic situation at the high school has been completely solved with the assistance of the Borough police. Mr. Davis commended the police force and the Borough Council's committee on the matter very highly, saying that all the "hot-rodgers" which bothered the school last year have been removed, and that the situation is under "complete control."

Summer's Over,

Fall and Football
Fill the Air

—Torrid Tiger

Autumn arrived right on schedule this week—at 3:27 a.m. Monday, to be exact—and Princetonians greeted the new season with open arms following the driest summer in a century. Appropriately, the first day of fall featured a sharp electrical storm that broke humid temperatures and gave the area nearly an inch of rain. That night, by the way, brought the total precipitation so far in September to 2.1, within striking distance of 3.75, normal for the whole month.

By Tuesday night, temperatures dipped into the low 50s—a far cry from the 72-degree average for the last three weeks of summer—and it seemed reasonable to expect comfortable football weather this Saturday, when Princeton and Rutgers continue their legendary rivalry. The weatherman warned football enthusiasts, however, that the fringe effects of Hurricane Frieda might throw a damper their way sometime Thursday, but he crossed his fingers in an effort to induce clear skies before the weekend.

days in the Mercer County workhouse, following her conviction before Magistrate Louis R. Gerber.

Sitting in borough court in the absence of Magistrate Paul R. Chesbro, Judge Gerber heard the woman enter a plea of not guilty. She had, however, been involved in an accident on Myer Street near the American Legion building and testimony by the complainant, Patrolman Ralph Procaccino, as to what occurred and medical evidence submitted resulted in the sentence.

Other drivers fined included Betty Brown, 47 Chestnut Street, speeding, $15; Sarah J. Owen, Federal City Road, Lawrenceville, following another car too closely, $15; Patrick Kulon-Miller, 6 Newlin Road, disregarding a "slow" sign, $10; Lester L. ### World Premiera Set

One of the theatrical season's most eagerly awaited events, "The Square Root of Wonderful" will be given its world premiere, prior to Broadway, at the Princeton Theatre on October 10, 11 and 12. Mail orders for the love story, set in the South, already have started to pour into the Princeton box office, which also is accepting telephone reservations for tickets (PR 1-5315).

Currently on view at the Garden Theatre is "The Ten Commandments" movie star Anne Baxter will appear in person as the star of "Wonderful," the long-awaited new play by Carson ("A Member of the Wedding") McCullers. Quinlan will be responsible for the direction, while decor will be supplied by Jo Melander, who performed a similar function for "Miss Lonelyhearts."

THE PLAYHOUSE

Man on Fire (September 29-30) is other than Bing Crosby, crooner of so many notable songs and headliner of so many big-name, high-budget motion pictures, and this is Bing in a most unusual role, to say the least. For "Fire" carries the longtime box-office drawing card no tunes to sing (except the brief, background theme piece) and no cinema stars of top marquee status to help him handle a difficult assignment. Mr. Crosby is a versatile gem, however, and, as might be guessed in advance, he comes through with his usual flying colors.

In "Fire," Bing is an unheroic figure devoting himself to his 10-year-old son, of whom he has had legal custody since divorcing the boy's mother two years before. Complications begin to mount when the ex-wife asks him to divide the youth's custody with her and Bing goes on a sustained spree after a judge, splendidly played by Anne Seymour, decides in the mother's favor. Happily, most of the actors working in support of the star—experienced TV performers—do well in their movie roles. Also happily, Bing replaces alcohol with just desserts by film's end.

Jeanne Eagels (September 29-October 1) is high and low, sustaining heights of effective drama but spending most of its time bogged down by sordid trivia, with the emphasis on drink and sex. Indeed, this part-fact, part-fiction biography of a vivid personality without inhibitions, who rocketed to fame in the stage play, "Rain," and then quickly fell victim to her own indulgence, is no entertainment. It calls for everything in the way of emotion and, in all-too-typical Hollywood style, it often gets too much.

Kim Novak, one of the brightest young stars in the screen constellation, plays the title role and while she is always pleasing to the eye, she still isn't ready to dominate a film as required by the scriptwriters of this picture. She proves a good deal less than convincing in her breakup scenes. Jeff Chandler may appeal to disaffection members of the audience, but it is Agnes Moorehead, as a sympathetic coach, who contributes the movie's most distinguished acting. Men and women who remember Miss Eagels, and youngsters who revel in success stories, are likely to enjoy this hot-and-cold production.

THE GARDEN

The Ten Commandments (now showing), or the story of Moses and the deliverance of a people from the bondage of dictatorial slavery, was one of the outstanding pictures in the history of the screen when Cecil B. DeMille first produced it in the "silent" 1920s. Now, the same great producer-director has made a modern version of the same Biblical developments, adding all of the cinema advancements at his command in the 1950s and using the film perhaps as a fitting pinnacle of his significant career. In VistaVision and Technicolor, "Commandments" represents one of the most arresting and lavish Hollywood productions of all time—strictly in the spectacular DeMille manner, but a tribute to the industry.

Nothing has been left out of this 219-minute recounting of Biblical history, much of it believable and some of it more entertaining than factual. The movements of hordes of people against vast backgrounds of soldiers and chariots, of pulsating crowds torn by the stress of mass hysteria are handled with consummate skill and breathtaking effect. Moses' "miracles" are masterpieces of theatrical presentation. And the lineup of stars, offering generally good characterizations, is seemingly endless—Charles Heston as Moses, Anne Baxter as Nefretiti, Yul Brynner as Ramesses, Edward G. Robinson as Dathan, Yvonne De Carlo as Saphira, Debra Paget as Lilia, Sir Cedric Hardwicke as Sethi, John Derek as Joshua, Nina Foch as Bithiah, Judith Anderson as Miriam, John Carradine as Aaron, Martha Scott as Yochabel, Vincent Price as Baka, etc.

Ben Marche. Except for the knes of dungarees, children's clothes never wear out as fast as they grow out.

Starting with this scientifically proven fact, The Outgrown Shop has since shown outgrown its own premise—to say nothing of its original premises—and now carries almost every kind of garment that has outlived its usefulness to one wearer, but still has plenty of use left for somebody else.

You can buy anything at this shop—second shoes and underwear (children's is here, however). Climb the flight of stairs to the second floor of 221 Witherspoon, the Houghton Building, and look over toddlers' snowsuits, boys' topsuits, women's suits, tuxedos for men, maternity clothes for women, and ice-skates for everybody.

Want a sample?

A boy's raglan-sleeved tweed coat, zip-in lining, size 18, $30. A charcoal brown suit for some lucky size 12 boy is $10. Older brother, in a size 12, could wear a $20 topcoat.

Girls can keep warm in any of several storm coats like the one that's size 12, $11. Others are about $7 and $10. A green, red and yellow plaid coat, cut for a princess waist, is $12. There are innumerable cotton school dresses.

Pass the Ants

The question of the week is, "What did people talk about at cocktail parties before the grub era?" You have, of course, eaten grasshoppers and eaten snake meat, and only the most hopelessly out-of-date hostess would serve agave worms because they've been done to death.

So what's left? Well, to begin with, chocolate covered ants. Princeton Gourmet carries them, rather unassumingly we thought, on a shelf next to a can of baby octopi packed in a hot butter sauce. The ants are embedded in a small square of chocolate so that you get a nasty start when you take that first bite. They have been fried, if that helps you any.

The baby octopi, three or four to a can, are about three inches across and you bite off one tentacle at a time. Tastes like lobster.

As a successor to the agave worm, Gourmet has raised caterpillars (the fuzzy ones?), and for a final course you may have whale skin. The rest of this stuff you eat with a drink—how else could you do it?—but nobody seems to know what you do with the skin. Sharkskin, now, you could use to patch a shoe.

One shelf has a stack of diapers, two brand-new baby kimonos, never used, and children's blouses, sweaters and skirts in all sizes.

Naturally, the stock of the shop varies widely, even from day to day, so that all the things we've mentioned may not be there when you visit. But new clothes come in all the time, so make your visits often. Proceeds from the sale of outgrowns are divided: the owner gets half, and Princeton Country Day splits the other half with Miss Fine's School.

Edible. Not everything on the food shelves of Princeton Gourmet has been picked out from under a log (see box). Some delightful new specialties have come into the shop, like the pate dore, an oven-baked pate that's like the pate maison of a French restaurant, or the quick Hollandaise powder that you mix with water and butter to make a superb sauce.

Spice Islands has an instant chicken broth with a true chicken flavor that will make a good chicken taste even better. If you're working over a ham, try the new ham sauce (works equally well as a dip with cheddar.)

If you're uneasy about cholesterol, use the Gourmet's new sunflower seed oil, excellent for a low-fat diet. It comes in a pint jar for $1.25. If the pound of flesh doesn't concern you, buy a package of eight crouillettes, large pastry shells made in Belgium for you to fill with your richest luncheon dish. The can is $1.15.

Cucumber marmalade is a piquant side dish for meat and fish, cherry blossoms are a piquant addition to your next old-fashioned. They unfold in liquid, like those Japanese toy flowers. Powdered garlic (not salt) is—well, piquant.

You can send a German-made coil heater to your child at school, or keep one yourself to warm up a cup of coffee. It comes in a zippered plastic bag from which you remove it. Plug it in and put the coil in your cup. It—Continued on Page 8

FINE CONCERTS PLANNED

Series II and Ormandy Conducts The Philadelphia and Cleveland orchestras with their respective conductors, Eugene Ormandy and George Szell, will be among the highlights of Series I of the Princeton University Concerts this season. Features of Series II will hear the great German singer, Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau, and four performances by the Juilliard Quartet. (For details of the dates and the artists, see the advertisement on this page.)

The concerts have been arranged by the Princeton University Concerts committee with Professor Elliot Forbes as chairman. Members of the committee are: Mrs. Henry A. Barton, David Blair, Professor Edward T. Cone, Mrs. McClintock Ellis, Mrs. Robert F. Locke, Mrs. Harry C. Hart, Professor Edward Hubler, Mrs. Samuel W. Lambert, Jr., Mrs. Bradford A. Locke, Mrs. McKim Norton, Professor Carroll C. Pratt, Mrs. Daniel Sayre, A. David Ship, Mrs. John E. Wilson Welch and Mrs. Wilbur Young.

The committee works solely to bring to the Princeton community the best available music performed by notable artists and musical organizations, at the lowest possible cost. It operates with the full cooperation of the University and under a subsidy from two funds, the Philena Fobes Fine Memorial Fund and the Jessie Peabody Frothingham Memorial Fund.

All concerts will be given in McCarter Theatre. Information about tickets and programs may be obtained by writing Mrs. Mackenty Bryan, 2-A North Middle Reunion Hall, Princeton University, or calling 1-9453 between 2 and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. The sale of single tickets for the Philadelphia Orchestra concert will start at the University Store at 10 a.m. Monday, with the remaining tickets available at the box office the evening of the performance.

The famous Philadelphia Philharmonic came into existence about the same time as its present conductor, Ormandy, some 58 years ago. Ormandy succeeded Stokowski in 1936 and has been able to bring the orchestra to its present position. The brilliant of the Cleveland Symphony and its conductor, George Szell, is well-known to Princeton audiences.

The two soloists to appear in Series I are Charles Rosen, an old friend and favorite in this community, and Mattiilda Dobbs. Mr. Rosen, who graduated from Princeton in 1948 and received a Ph. D. in French Literature in 1951, has recently been touring Europe. His appearances as a concert pianist have always been outstanding musical events noted for the easy mastery of the most difficult works in the repertory.

Miss Dobbs won the international music competition in Geneva in 1952. When she made her debut at La Scala in Milan in 1953, she was the first Negro ever to sing in that house. She will give a recital of songs and operatic arias.

Although Fischer-Dieskau has made only a limited number of appearances in America, he has a large following here from his recordings. A baritone with the Berlin Opera Company, he has made a specialty of song cycles and his program in Princeton will include one of these.

The Juilliard String Quartet consists of Robert Mann and Robert Koff, violins; Raphael Hillyer, viola; and Claus Adam, cello. The men have played together now for ten years and have a considerable reputation for their dramatic and intense performances of contemporary works as well as for their authority and assurance in the classics. Their four concerts will include three quartets of Beethoven from the late period.

will boil water in two minutes, but should probably not be used for defrosting a refrigerator.

A cake comb is made out of a triangle of metal and its purpose is to put a professional swirl to your frosting. Each side of the triangle has notches like a saw, each side a different size. Put the apex of the triangle in the middle of the cake, draw the toothed edge around the entire circumference, and you'll have a top of concentric circles.

Separates at M.M. Suits have been a specialty at Mayme Mead for a long time, but separate skirts and blouses are fairly new. The shop at 188 Nassau handles them, however, with the deftness of experience.

Try on an aristocrat of a skirt by an aristocrat of a skirt by a flannel, Arrow stitching at the darts and the top of the kick pleat, the fine hand stitching at the hant pockets and the smoothness of the front (no belt) show its impeccable lineage. Costs about $20. A sister skirt has a small window-pane check in light grey on darker.

Grey has been used again for a four-piece ensemble: straight skirt, cardigan, waist and blouse. The grey and gold stripe of the blouse appears again to line the jacket and the vest.

Davidson presents a red suit with short fitted jacket, and a matching topcoat made of the same tweed in a bigger weave. The coat has a big Pilgrim collar that goes well with its little round collar of the jacket. A few runs down the price ladder from Davidson, Mayme Mead has a three-piece rust suit (skirt, jacket, topcoat) for $110, and a deep cherry red for $49.95.

This fall's cocktail dress is a black crepe with a slanted sash in peau de soie that ends with a big pouf. The neck is round, the sleeves non-existent.

Car coats can be grey or red. A raincoat can be tweedy, with white or black alpaca lining, or natural chamo with a red calico lining that brightens anybody's rainy day.

Work's All Done. Here's a collection of knits already made for you, so put away the needles for the time being. Take them up again in a paragraph or two.

The Knitting Shop, Tulane Street, has co-ordinates in wool and knit that combine a lightweight wool skirt and sweater trimmed with the skirt wool. The sweater is a fur blend, short sleeved usually, in cardigan or pull-over style.

Another group has cashmere sweaters in periwinkle blue, beige, charcoal, light grey, some of them matched exactly with skirts. These sweaters are classics, mostly, but some have a three-quarter sleeve instead of the usual wrist-length one. A flannel wrap-around skirt by Hockanum has sweaters that go along in harmonizing colors.

Now, if you want to knit yourself, Spinnier provides a Shetland blend that you knit on 8 needles in grey, beige, charcoal (all heather tones), yellow, navy or scarlet for $6.55. Pattern, ribbon and yarn all come in the kit. Teen stuff in hood, beanie or mittens for $1 in a kit . . . a hood scarf, two-tone keeps head and shoulders above the cold, $1.59. . . the crown cuddle cap bands and from ear to ear . . . a Sun Valley hood is Scandinavian design, Idaho influence . . . a stocking cap turns into a Christmas sock.

Gold laces some of the fall knitting bags. Others are tapestry. Flashing with gold coins here and there. Black and white makes a knitting bag look like a hand-bag. These bags come in many shapes, soft or rigid like "knitting boxes."

For Christmas, make a needle-point doorknob in poodle, kitten, or house design. Make a big quilt to go under your Christmas tree, or a wide red hanger to hold all your Christmas cards.

114, and John B. Pidding, 39 Linden Lane, wearing a red light, $15.

In Trenton this week, the Department of Motor Vehicles announced a one-month revocation of the license of Frederick E. Johnston, Jr., 210 Harrison Street. Three speeding convictions are on his record.

MISS KRAUSE HONORED
Six lectures on October 1, Miss Helen C. Krause, head of the anesthesia department at Princeton hospital, who will retire on October 1, was honored this week at a dinner at Hopewell Manor. Administrative and department heads at the hospital attended the dinner.

Miss Krause was presented with a gold ten-year pin in recognition of her decade of association with the hospital. The pin was presented by John W. Kaufman, the hospital's administrator, on behalf of the board of trustees. Miss Krause also received an engraved silver cigarette case from her fellow department heads.

Miss Krause plans to retire to Orlando, Fla., with two life-long friends, also recently retired, with whom she has been living in Cranbury. The three bought a house in Orlando in 1962 and have spent their summer vacations there. This will now be their permanent residence, although they hope to spend their summers in Princeton and Cranbury.

Before Miss Krause came to Princeton Hospital in 1947, "after an illness, she had for 22 years (1920 to 1943) been chief anesthetist at Temple University Hospital in Philadelphia. She graduated from the hospital both as a nurse and as a nurse anesthetist.

She will be succeeded by Miss Therese Trupp, who has been a member of the anesthesia department for seven years. She is a graduate of St. Joseph's Hospital in Philadelphia, both in nursing and anesthesia, and spent four years in the U. S. Navy, rising to the rank of lieutenant commander by the end of the war.

She spent five years at Mercer Hospital in Trenton before coming to Princeton. Miss Trupp's naval service included a tour of duty at Trinidad and a year as anesthetist and nursing officer in charge of the operating room aboard the naval hospital ship, the U. S. S. Resolute.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED
Ground Observer Corps, The Princeton Post of the U. S. Air Force Ground Observer Corps has launched a membership drive to fill vacancies in the group, Herbert McAneny, newly-appointed supervisor of the post, has announced.

One hundred or more volunteer "spotters" from the Princeton area are sought, Mr. McAneny said. Eighty-three spotters are needed to serve on weekly, bi-weekly or tri-weekly shifts and others are needed to serve as substitutes.

Mr. McAneny emphasized that the Ground Observer Corps is an integral part of the U. S. Air Force. Its posts, scattered at intervals of from eight to 10 miles along the border regions of the nation, play a part in continental air defense, just as do the radar posts of the DEW (Distant Early Warning) Line in the far North.

Volunteers are sought for a normal task of duty of two hours, with spotters assigned together for each shift. In case of unavoidable absence, spotters may notify their day captains, who will arrange for substitutes to replace them.

No previous knowledge of aircraft is necessary to be a spotter. Newly-enrolled members will receive one period of instruction in operational procedure at the post, which is on lower Springdale Road. Mr. McAneny said the volunteers will be given Civil Defense identity cards and after a short period of service they will receive observers' "wings" and an identity card from the U. S. Air Force.

Reliable school children make just as good spotters as adults in the daytime hours, Mr. McAneny remarked. Anyone wishing to enroll or to receive further information about the work is asked to telephone one of the following numbers: Princeton 1-3495 (Civil Defense Headquarters—daytime only), Princeton

1-5489 (John W. French, GOC Recruiting Officer), or Princeton 1-104-W (Mr. McAneny).

MUCH FOR MANY
YMCA Expands Adult Program. The Princeton YMCA has announced an expanded fall and winter program for adults with most of the activities beginning in October and continuing until April.

Instruction is offered for beginners in art, badminton, bridge, table tennis, volleyball and basketball. A general gymnasium class for men and women, in which skill instruction is offered, will be held on a regular weekly basis. An adult leadership training course will be held monthly and pre-induction classes will be given for young men preparing to enter the armed forces.

YMCA officials pointed out an opportunity to meet new friends is afforded through such Y activities as the Men's Club, the Art Club, the Badminton Club, the Golf Club and the Golden Age Club for retired men. The family night programs and the young adult clubs are both co-sponsored by the YMCA and YWCA.

Sports leagues are being set up in table tennis, basketball, volleyball, badminton and soccer. Registration for all activities will be accepted through October 9. In-

One of the feature exhibits will be G. W. Silvester's valuable collection of chess sets, including an English set of bone made about 1950, an Alaskan set featuring Russian, Eskimo and Arctic chess pieces, a beautifully-carved set from Switzerland, and a Chinese set dating back to China Clipper days.

Two other feature exhibits include a collection of Bell flower glass owned by Mrs. Walter F. Fullam. The third collection announced is the well-known tube collection of Howard E. Schrader. D.A.R. Presents Map. A copy of General George Washington's plan for part of the Mount Vernon lands has been placed in Rockingham, Washington's headquarters at Rocky Hill by the Princeton Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. The copy, made in 1849, shows woodlands, partly under cultivation, clover lands and the location of springs.

Rockingham is the house that the Continental Congress, meeting in Princeton in 1783, selected for General and Mrs. Washington as they and the Congress awaited the signing of the peace treaty between Great Britain and the United States. The simple farm house was the home of Mrs. John Berrien, widow of Judge Berrien, an early settler who became prominent in local affairs and served as a trustee of the University.

The Princeton Chapter, D.A.R., was instrumental in procuring Rockingham, the General's last headquarters during the Revolution, from destruction in the late 1800's. With the aid of other groups it helped to restore and return the house. Members of the advisory committee of the chapter are Mrs. Sherley W. Morgan, chairman, Mrs. Richard T. Anderson, Miss Genevieve Cobb, Mrs. Walter F. Fullam and Mrs. Alfred G. Mayor.

LOANS MADE IN ALL NEARBY TOWNS

Question of the Week

Question: How do you think Princeton's football team will fare in the 1957 season?
Location: Around town,

Nielson Poe, The Nassau Club, retired coach and Princeton '97: As often in the past, I'm looking forward to Princeton's winning all its games. I only know about half of the squad members, but I think the team will be as good as people are saying. There are some holes to be filled, but the boys that are coming back from last year's team have shown themselves to be capable.

Marlin Lippes, manager of the Princeton Western Union office: I predict Princeton will win the Ivy League crown. All the teams in the League will be about equal to each other, but Princeton will have a slight edge. The men up from last year's fine freshman team will give the Tigers a decided advantage.

Larry Healy, 49 Aiken Avenue, proprietor of Durner's Barber Shop: If Princeton gets by Pennsylvania, we'll go all the way. Penn has some good boys. They've gone through tough schedules the last several years. We will have a great backfield, but at the start there may be weak spots in the line—at the guards and the center. But, by the last three games of the season, the line should be good. I think the team will be strong at ends and capable at the tackles. Penn will be a tough game for the line so early in the season.

Paul Roberts, 325 Foulke Hall, Princeton sophomore: It looks like an undefeated season. The whole backfield is great. Sanochi is a possible All-American. The line has lost a lot of men, but I think we can overcome that.

Richard Hobbs, 325 Foulke Hall, Princeton sophomore: We'll have a stronger offense than defense, but there won't be our equal anywhere in the league. We'll murder Yale. Of course, we're counting on a fine group of men in our class coming up from the freshman team.

Bernard Olshy, clothing salesman at Douglas MacDavid's, 20 Nassau Street: We'll have a great backfield and the line will come along of its own. The other day a Penn player came into the store. He told me they were "awful" and said "I wouldn't be going anywhere either. I think Princeton will be as good as they say, and I hope I'm right. The last time I was asked Question of the Week I picked Princeton to beat

Stellar Soothsaying

Exactly a year ago, TOWN Topics devoted Question of the Week to an ever-popular query—that of guessing how Princeton's Tigers are going to fare during the coming football season. Eight grid stars of former Old Nassau teams answered the question last September, two of them predicting the exact won-lost record (7-2). Elsewhere on this page, non-gridders—with one notable exception—have taken the opportunity to find out if they can equal or better the crystal ball-gazing of their predecessors.

George J. Sells, 73 Broad-ripple Drive, and Hyman L. Battle, Mangrove Road, were the successful respondents last year, ringing the bell only because the Tigers faltered at season's end and dropped their eighth and ninth games. The other six interviewees were more conservative in their predictions, and several even said Old Nassau would play about 500 ball. For the 89th fall of Princeton football, commencing with the traditional Rutgers meeting this Saturday, the 57 prognosticators have sounded a more optimistic note.

Yale 14-0 in 1955. The Tigers won, 13-0.

Harold Ostroff, manager of Benwick's Restaurant, 42 Cuyler Road: I'd be open to all the money you'd want to bet on the Ivy League race. Princeton will take that easily. They may have some trouble with Colgate. Mike Ippolito (wingback) up from the freshman is the man to watch. I predict this will be Princeton's best season since the days of Kazmier.

LIBRARY DEDICATION
Seminary Ceremony Set, Princeton Theological Seminary's new Speer Library, a $1,700,000 structure regarded as the largest and best-designed religious library in the country, will be dedicated at 3:30 p.m. next Tuesday. Dr. Nathan M. Pusey, president of Harvard University, will deliver the event's main address.

Speer Library, started in 1955 at Mercer Street and Library Place was constructed to replace Lenox Library, completed in 1843 and presented to the Seminary by James Lenox, a noted New York philanthropist who also presented a library to the city of New York. Speer was opened to students, ministers and visiting scholars in April, but the dedicatory ceremonies were delayed to coincide with the fall meeting of the Seminary's board of trustees.

The three-level limestone building accommodates a collection of books which has grown from 4,000 volumes in 1823 to almost 250,000 catalogue items, including old Bibles, a valuable collection illustrating the Puritan literature of England from 1550 to 1700 and many books on church history. The entire library represents the finest collection of theological volumes to be found anywhere on this continent.

Dr. Peter K. Emmons, president of the Seminary trustees, will preside at next Tuesday's dedication, with Dr. John A. Mackay, president of the Seminary, extending special greetings. One particularly delighted onlooker will be Dr. Kenneth S. Gapp, Seminary librarian for the past 29 years.

BIG STEP FORWARD

Western Electric Gets Options.
Moving ahead with plans to establish a new research laboratory in nearby Hopewell Township, Western Electric Company this past week exercised options to purchase the 102-acre Princeton Film Center property. Timothy E. Shea, WE's vice-president in charge of engineering, announced the move, noting that this is the largest parcel of the 197 acres needed by the company as its lab site.

At precisely the same time WE was obtaining the land options, attorneys for the firm were busy filing formal answers to two of three suits instituted against the company by residents of Carter Road who own property near the proposed research tract. The complainants started their legal action, charging misuse of the land, after the Hopewell Planning Board had passed a resolution recommending favorable action on the company's bid to come here and the Hopewell Township Committee had approved the resolution.

In preparation for development of the property, Mr. Shea reported, that soil borings have been taken to determine its suitability for a construction standpoint. Final results of the test have shown it to be satisfactory for buildings contemplated by the company, while the existing film center structure has been surveyed to find out what repairs are necessary before it can be used as an interim location. Architectural details for the new laboratory are not in final form as yet, the vice-president said. However, the buildings will be designed to harmonize with the surrounding community, will be set well back from the road and will be attractively landscaped.

Mr. Shea reiterated that the laboratory will be devoted to basic and fundamental research and engineering concerned with new approaches to processes and methods and their development to the point where they can be introduced into the company's operations.

Seller of the "key" film center property, according to the company spokesman, is the Meredith Engineering Company of Des Moines. Earlier this month, WE purchased the residence property of Dr. and Mrs. Gerald S. Kohler just north of the film center tract.

rent on the grounds of the Princeton Country Day School.
Both U. S. Senators from New Jersey, Alexander Smith and Clifford P. Case, are planning to attend, as is ex-Governor Alfred Driscoll. Other leading state political figures who will be present include Mrs. Walter Edge, widow of a former New Jersey governor; Sam Bodine, State Republican Chairman; David Van Alstyne, one-time acting governor, and Mrs. Eleanor S. Todd, national committeewoman from New Jersey.

Heading the Princeton contingent are Borough Acting-Mayor Tristram B. Johnston, Township Mayor Ralph D. Mason and Fred Vandewater, candidate for State Senator from Mercer County. Senator Case will greet all guests informally as there is no program planned.

Thursday is the deadline for purchasing tickets which are priced at $2.50. They may be secured at Hinkson's or buy through Mrs. Lewis W. Hicks, luncheon chairman, (Princeton 1-2862.)

Large Turn-Out for Democrats. Over 500 people attended the Democratic Club outing Saturday at Squatters Grove. The guests included members of the club, local and county candidates and many non-party members who came to partake in the program arranged.

More than 200 children were among the guests, and were entertained by pony and fire engine rides and various contests. Edward J. Sweeney was chairman of the outing.

Czech to Outline Red Terror. John Hvasta, who successfully eluded his communist captors three years ago in Czechoslovakia, will describe his ordeal at a meeting of the St. Paul's Parent-Teacher Association on Tuesday, October 8, at 8 p.m. in the gymnasium.

Parents will meet with teachers in the classrooms at 7:15. A short business meeting will follow.
Speaking on the topic of "Communism and the Fatima Message," Hvasta will reveal the spiritual lessons he learned during eight months in solitary confinement and a subsequent two-year period spent dodging secret police while subsisting on melted snow, berries and wild game in the Czech forests. Now in the process of writing a book, he acknowledges that "we don't know the true meaning of anything, unless we know the lack of it . . . religion, life, freedom food."

Independents For Meyner

The New Jersey Poll reported this week that its latest statewide survey showed Governor Meyner leading Republican gubernatorial candidate Malcolm S. Forbes by a 5 to 3 margin in the race to win the state's independent voters.

Fifty-four percent of the independent voters polled said they would probably vote for Meyner. Thirty-two percent favored Forbes, with 14% stating they are undecided. The survey showed three out of every 10 New Jersey voters considered themselves independents.

A near-majority of the independent voters polled said they leaned toward the Democratic Party. Forty-nine percent said they favored that party, 37 percent said they leaned toward the Republican party and 14 percent indicated no preference. In the last New Jersey gubernatorial race (in 1953) the Republican candidate (Paul Frost) was shown by the Poll to be leading Mr. Meyner in the bid for the independent vote.

Mr. Hvasta's talk will be accompanied by a motion picture, "The Fatima Triumph and the Blue Army of Our Lady of Fatima". The program is planned to acquaint those attending with the new outdoor shrine on St. Paul's Church grounds which is scheduled for dedication on the following Sunday.

SPORTS In Princeton

BACK TO THE STADIUM

Rutgers vs. Princeton at 2. The 1957 football season will begin Saturday at 2 in Palmer Stadium with teams of the two colleges which inaugurated the sport 88 years ago facing each other. Good weather is expected to draw some 25,000 spectators to the proceedings, particularly since the invading Scarlet eleven is coming here with an upset clearly in mind. There is reason to believe that both teams will score with some degree of consistency, in view of the fact that each has a veteran backfield but is currently solving a variety of line problems. Both of Saturday's traditional opponents can pass well, and Princeton in particular has greater running ability than it has had in several seasons.

Sophomores a Big Factor.—Possibly for the first time in a full decade of the 13-year Caldwell regime, as many as four sophomores are scheduled to start their first varsity game. Actually, they are simply fitting in at the exact positions where graduation hit hardest, so that it is not primarily a case of established veterans being nudged aside by newcomers.

Both starting ends will be members of last year's unbeaten freshman outfit, as will the center and the wingback. In the case of the other immediate replacements will also be sophomores, because the only available letterman (senior Jim Valaska) has lost considerable time through a knee injury.

At left end, it will be Jim Stansbury, a 185-lb., 6-2 graduate of North Plainfield High. On the other end of the line, Ed Kostelnik, 190, 6-0, will start. He was a standout as a freshman.

The center will be Frank Svetetz, 195-lb., brother of last year's Army captain, who has displaced senior letterman Paul Nyström at the starting position. The sophomore has a 20-pound weight advantage over the more experienced player, but is an asset in the rugged interior line play.

Backfield Has Big Potential.—The fourth varsity newcomer to break into the starting lineup is Mike Ippolito, 150-lb., 6-2 son of the football coach at Long Branch High School. A fullback as a freshman, he was switched to wingback early in the training session at Blairstown and has shown much promise in scrim-

CALDWELL SIDELINED

Illness Forces Withdrawal. In a development unprecedented in Princeton or Ivy League football, Charlie Caldwell will be forced by illness to retire from his position as the Tigers' head coach for the 1957 season.

The University has granted him a medical leave of absence to permit him to "recover fully from a lingering infection that, in medical opinion could conceivably lead to complications." President Robert F. Goheen announced on Monday. Caldwell had undergone surgery last spring, and had twice been forced to miss practice sessions at Blairstown this month because of what has been termed a "lingering, low-grade infection."

Shifts within the Princeton coaching staff to replace him have resulted in the appointment of Dick Colman, line coach on Caldwell's staff since last interim here, to coach Bill Whitton, assistant freshman coach, moves up to the varsity to join Colman, Cappy Cappon, Jud Timm and Bob Plig.

Hopes are that Caldwell may be able to return to his coaching duties before the end of the season. For the present, rages so far, Ippolito is a triple threat, his passing and kicking ability adding much to Princeton's backfield versatility.

He will operate with Captain Jack Sapoch, quarterback; Tom Morris, tailback; and either Hewes Agnew or Fred Tiley, fullback. There is some question as to which of the latter two will start, partly because Tiley was slowed by various minor injuries, plus a case of poison ivy, and also because Agnew has been showing so well in practice. The latter was the Ivy League's top scorer in 1956 with 55 points, even though he did not become the starting fullback until after Tiley broke his collarbone in the Cornell game.

Princeton's tackles on Saturday were Bob Cascio, 220, and Gene Forcione, 210. The guards will be Dave Grubb, 205, and Art Benis, 203. All are lettermen, all but Forcione are seniors.

The second team, which may go in as a unit, is likely to consist of Mike Conway and Lynn Oxenrider, both sophomores, at ends; Lou Brinsmade, senior letterman, and sophomore Jud Pishner, tackles; junior letterman Bob Rock and junior Joe DeDeo, guards; and senior letterman Paul Nyström, center. In the backfield, it will be seniors Alan Manzler and John Heyd, both letter winners, at wingback and tailback; sophomore Robin Prince as Sapoch's replacement and either Tiley or Agnew at fullback.

Other backs who will probably see action are Ray "Splitter" Empson, 150-lb. wingback, and sophomore Dick George, tailback. Likely to be on the bench are senior Jim Mottley, the team's leading passer a year ago who has been bothered with a bad shoulder, and sophomore tailback Dan Sachs, out with an ankle sprain.

The Tigers' first line will average about 202 (five pounds more than Rutgers) and the backfield will weigh 193 per man. Both figures are well above normal for recent Princeton teams, so that if speed develops the combination will pay dividends.

Rutgers Optimistic. While Princeton was engaging Lenigh last Saturday in a scrimmage that gave a thin edge to the Tigers, Rutgers was playing Penn in a however, he has defined his decision as "only fair to the squad and my coaching associates. Football has become such an exacting science," he declared, "that part-time coaching, if only for a period of weeks, is extremely unwise."

Prior to his enforced retirement, Caldwell had compiled a fine 634 average over 12 years, had put together a 24-game winning streak and brought Princeton an unprecedented six straight Big Three championships. His temporary successor, Colman, was one of Williams College's outstanding athletes in the mid-thirties, and has made major contributions to Princeton success in football and lacrosse since coming here with Caldwell as a coach.

Ivy League Forecast

PRINCETON over Rutgers. Tigers better at single wing. Yale over Connecticut. But it could be an upset.

Cornell over Colgate. Ithacans to improve over last year.

Penn State over Penn. Quakers in for real trouble.

Brown over Columbia. Lions no match for potent Bears.

Dartmouth over New Hampshire. Easy for the Indians, (Harvard not scheduled.)

Franklin Field practice session. In contrast to policy enforced here, the score was announced as 14 to 7 in favor of the Scarlet, and reports of the game left little doubt that the New Brunswick eleven had pushed the Quakers around most of the afternoon. Rutgers held a 14-0 lead until Penn finally manufactured a TD against Johnny Stegman's third stringers.

That casts an odd light on Princeton's first and third opponents of the 1957 season, in that either Rutgers is considerably better than had been anticipated or Penn is a good deal farther from hitting the comeback trail than early reports from Philadelphia had indicated. The answer, in any event, is that the Tigers must be good enough Saturday to prevent an upset that would do much to dampen hopes for a good 1957 season.

Rutgers bases its optimism on the such facts as the presence of — Continued on Page 18

a veteran backfield; the completion of a full year of single wing football; and Siegmán's complete knowledge of his squad's capabilities. In contrast, a year ago the Scarlet was depending largely on sophomore strength; it had always used the T; and its coach had had scant opportunity to work with his squad after taking over the reins in the winter of '56.

The visitors' starting backfield will consist of Bill Whitzore, quarterback; Bill Austin, tailback; Jay Hunton, wingback; and Bill Hopwood, fullback. It was Austin, a good triple-threat operative, who scored both TD's against Penn and he will keep the Tigers' busy this weekend. Chances are that the score will be somewhat closer than 29-0 things a year ago.

Things to Watch For. As the Tigers open the season which they hope will bring them their first formal Ivy League title, these possible developments will be of interest:

- Defensive ability of the four sophomore ends. Princeton strength in the middle may well drive the opposition outside, and the degree of success the ends have in stopping these thrusts will help measure Princeton's defensive problems.

- Sapoch as a blocking back and line-bucker. Contrary to most backs, he'd rather "knock the other guys down" than carry the ball, and he excels at getting them off their feet.

- Both teams to pass quite frequently. If blocking by the lines is not up to par, both quarterbacks may call for much aerial action. Four players (Morris, Heyd, Ippolito, Menzler) of the first eight backs Princeton will use can throw.

CAPTAIN: Jack Sapoch, 200-lb. quarterback, will lead Princeton during its 89th football season. He's tops in the East in his position.

NEWCOMER: Sophomore Ed Kostelnik is one of four members of his class who will be in Princeton's starting lineup Saturday. He's the new right end.

- Ippolito at wingback. His potential is considerable.

- Line play by Dave Grubb. Caldwell rates him "one of the best guards in the Ivy League."

TIME TO TRAVEL

PHS vs. Leonardo. Coach Joe Jorgoli, minus a powerhouse football combination at Princeton High since the early '50s, will take his senior-dominated 1957 varsity to Leonardo this Saturday in high hopes that his recent search for a consistent winner is over. At 2 p.m., the Little Tigers' fast single-wing backs, led by a substantial line, will set about the task of reversing the Lions' close decisions of the last two years—and, simultaneously, start improving on the 3-5 PHS record of 1956.

Quite naturally, the 11-year veteran of Princeton campaigns has refused to get optimistic over chances for a big year this fall. His charges have been practicing less than four weeks, his backfield still has many wrinkles to smooth out and Leonardo reportedly has the speed to make PHS' opening afternoon a tough one. But Jorgoli has that beefy forward wall and the whole squad has exhibited top spirit — and, well, the Little Tigers may just have "it" if the first-stringers avoid injury.

Last week, the Blue and White eleven scrimmaged Freehold and Woodbridge, a pair of teams boasting considerably more ability than Lambertville, the only previous practice opponent. Jorgoli said he was "astounded" with most of the PHS endeavors, considering the little amount of time devoted to drills to date, but was disappointed by his club's pass-receiving difficulties. On the other hand, he and his colleagues were particularly pleased with the team's pass protection work. Billy Moore, a reserve halfback, suffered a knee injury in the Woodbridge scrap and Bill Lindley, a sophomore reserve, damaged a shoulder in the Freehold meeting, but otherwise PHS readied itself for the Leonardo game without mishap. Co-Captain Bill Gallant, the Little Tigers' "iron man" flanker, sat out both warm-up scrimmages with a swollen ankle, but will be okay come Saturday. Tex Wilkinson, No. 2 fullback, and Jack Lackey, sub halfback, also will be set following early-September maladies.

sure about starters for each of the offensive positions — except tailback, the most important of all in his single-wing attack. Either Edgar Riddick or Butch Cross will get the nod and certainly both will see much action, but Jingoli won't name the starting tailback until game time. Because Riddick is his No. 1 runner and Cross is his No. 1 passer. A squad of 44 will travel to the shore town wearing the Blue and White. Gallant, at right end, will "anchor" PHS' offensive line, which will average about 185 from end to end. His forward wall cohorts will be Bruce Larsen, right tackle; Bob Sculerati, right guard; Lou Reiger, center; Deyo Swartz (or maybe Bill Durling), left guard; Don Eggley (a pleasant surprise from last year's JV), left tackle; and George Wilson, left end. With Riddick or Cross, the attacking backfield will be composed of Co-Captain Vic Fasanella at full, Joe Chibbaro at quarterback and Alan Ammerman at wing.

The Little Tigers' defensive unit, based on work in last week's scrimmages, definitely will feature 230-pound Dick McCluskey at one tackle slot and probably lettermen Joe (The Toe) Nutt and Bob Grover somewhere in the middle of the line. Wilkinson and Fasanella will team as Princeton's end linemen in the oft-used 6-2-1 defensive pattern, while Tony Boccanfuso, a stand-out sophomore end, will share safety duties with Wilson.

Fasanella, to the surprise of his coaches, has improved tremendously as a kicker and will be the No. 1 PHS punter at the season's outset — a fortunate quick-kick situation from the fullback post. Ammerman will handle some of the punting chores, as will Riddick, who can cure his costly fumble habit. The Little Tigers' uniforms will be new this year, but a familiar figure, Nutt, again will boot points after touchdowns — and most of the PHS kickoffs.

SLOWLY BUT SURELY

Hun Builds Team. With 10 days remaining before Hun school's football opener against Tower Hill on October 4, Coach Hawley Waterman this week described his varsity's development as "slow but sure." Looking wisely at his 55-man squad, considerably larger in number and size than the Johnny Rams of 1956, the coach said he is still convinced his charges are des-lined to better last fall's 1-3 mark. Pass patterns and pass protection were emphasized this week as Hun, fully cognizant of the Wilmington team's traditionally strong line, mapped elaborate aerial plans. Quarterback Charley Bennett, veteran T operator, displayed his prowess in the pass-throwing department, with Halfbacks Bob Gottschalk and John Green improving steadily on "sweep pass" plays.

Asked about the progress of the Red and Black line, definitely a sub-par quantity last fall, Dick Wentworth and Pat Tidey, assistant coaches, again singled out Cal Stanny, a newcomer at tackle, as the big boy (200 pounds) to watch. Also notable among the highly touted transfer students, afforded special recognition this week, were linemen George Miller and John Ward.

Wentworth said he expects veteran end Chuck Berren and new-comes Tony Wright and John Scop to do most of Hun's pass-catching, based on their showing in the lengthy pass drills. He also predicted a good season for Pete Foote, experienced Red and Black offensive center.

TWO TOUCH LEAGUES

YMCA to Sponsor. A pair of touch football leagues for Princeton boys, sponsored by the YMCA, will be organized between 10 a.m. and noon this Saturday at the Dorothea House and John Street. Dick Swimmer, loop director, will register individual youths and representatives of six-man teams, and also will join Bob Bredenberg in a demonstration of rules and technique at 11 a.m. in the 'Y' Youth Center.

Swinnerton announced that one league will be formed for boys under 13 years of age and another for boys 13 years of age and older. Six regulars and four substitutes will be permitted to join each entry, and a copy of playing rules will be given to each participant. Follow-up Saturday's registration, a practice game will be conducted on the 'Y' grounds.

SWEET VICTORY

Thorne's Tops ETS. Maintaining the triumphant pace which brought them an easy season championship in the Princeton Community Softball League's distasteful division, members of Thorne's talented team last week wrenched up the girls' annual playoff series. The victors swept the playoffs by blasting runner-up Educational Testing Service in two straight games, 4-1 and 12-3.

Bee Baker, truly a Thorne in the side of all opposition this summer, proved the winners' pivotal performer during the brief decisive series that concluded PCSL competition for 1957. She pitched her club to another trophy by capturing both contests and raising her campaign won-lost record to an impressive 20-3, and she speared Thorne's in the hitting department with a superior performance, three-for-three in each encounter.

In both games, the verdict remained in doubt only until

Thorne's had batted in the first inning. The champs scored three runs in the top of the first of the opening playoff game, adding three in the third and two in the —Continued on Page 20

fth, and they tallied four markers in the last of the first in the second game, following with one or more scores in every inning thereafter.

Miss Baker's hurling was magnificent. She allowed but one safety in the opener, a single by ETS Shortstop Ruth Blackman, and she came back with an effective seven-inning the second time out. On only one occasion — the fourth frame of the second game — did the losers get to her for more than a singleton. They bunched four belated runs at that time.

Along with Miss Baker, whose six hits included a homer in the second game, Sarah Huneycutt and Sarah Bertrand were the playoff plate stars for Thorne's. The former added a home run to the victory, while the latter, during which she also excelled in the field.

Commenting on his team, Mgr. Jack Esche, finishing his third year at the Thorne's helm, said this year's club was his "best yet" — cooperative, spirited and talented. He predicted a victorious future for the girls. "If they stay together," and he thanked the team's sponsor and fans for their season-long support.

Supported by Air. The famous Frank Lloyd Wright "Airhouse," designed to be supported completely by low-pressure air, is on display at the Princeton Shopping Center. The show, sponsored by the Cerebral Palsy Foundation of New Jersey, will continue for approximately three weeks.

The unique house, located on the Mall, is open for inspection to visitors. A recent feature attraction and grand prize winner in the Paris Fair, the Airhouse made its debut at the International Home Exposition at the New York Coliseum in May.

No beams, no poles, concrete or other strength-bearing members support the structure. Constructed of a new vinyl plastic material called "Efibron," the house can be carried in the rear of a station wagon from site to site and "blown up" in a matter of minutes. # News Of The CHURCHES

BACK TO SCHOOL.

"Train Up A Child . . ." This is the Sunday when Mary Jones and freshly shined oxen climb the church steps to the first Sunday School of the fall term. Some Princeton churches keep their Sunday schools all summer, others began last week and a few will not start until next Sunday, but for most Princeton children, Sunday is the opening of the door.

Sunday schools are taught traditionally, by dedicated adult volunteers who follow a curriculum laid down by the national headquarters of the denomination. In Princeton, for example, all three Presbyterian churches use the same series of lessons. The same A.M.E. has nine teachers who use the curriculum prepared for nationwide use by the headquarters of the church in Nashville. The Christian Science Sunday school also uses a source of study prepared by the national headquarters of the church.

Children at the Jewish center will have a rigorous course that includes the study of Hebrew as well as lessons in the tenets of the Jewish faith. Jewish children attend Sunday school for an hour and a half, and Hebrew language classes one afternoon a week.

Westerly Road, a non-denominational, nondenominational church, has chosen the lessons prepared by the Scripture Press of Chicago for its age groups. In the United groups, the Unitarian church school and the Friends First Day School, all work out their own curricula, using books and pamphlets published by their own churches, or books published by other churches, and writing their own lessons.

Most churches feel that teachers and mothers are zealous, need some course of training before they go to work on young minds. At the First Presbyterian church, teachers and Sunday school executives held an Education Retreat last Sunday to prepare them for their work. Dr. Daniel Turrent of Princeton Seminary and the Rev. Walter D. Wagner, led the retreat. Princeton Seminary, recognizing the need for educated leaders, will hold its fifth annual school of Christian Life and Leadership, from October 17 to November 11. Laymen may take general courses while special training courses will be offered to teachers. "How to Run a Kindergarten," and so on.

Like the public schools, the Sunday Schools of Princeton are too big for the classroom space available for them. Trinity Episcopal has pushed its fourth grade up to the upper school because the lower school enrollment has been so great. Ten classrooms have been added at Trinity since Second Presbyterian, the Jewish Center and Friends First Day School have long had double sessions to accommodate everyone. Witherspoon Presbyterian has decided this year to set a minimum age of four years, for its scholars, younger ones will be siphoned off to a church-day nursery.

A few churches have figures that give some idea of Princeton's church population. At the

DR. JOHN A. MACKAY, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, will put on his robes for two special occasions this week. On Sunday at 8:45 p.m. he will inaugurate the second season of Vespers in Miller Chapel, Princeton Seminary, and on Tuesday at 8 p.m. he will preach the installation sermon for the Rev. David L. Crawford, new pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church.

there is an enrollment of 250. Lutheran of the Messiah, at present in a discussion stage regarding the future of its curriculum, has about 160 students, the Unitarians expect 150.

Home for Baptists. Preliminary drawings for a church building to house the Calvary Baptist congregation were unanimously approved this week by the church congregation. Harold E. Waggoner, president of the National Architectural Guild of America, is the architect.

According to present plans, which are subject to some revision, the building will provide a chapel for 200 persons, a minischool, a Sunday school, a kitchen, and a fellowship hall. The building has been so designed that it can be expanded as church needs grow.

Construction is at least two years away, according to the Rev. James H. Middleton, pastor, and so the building committee has not requested it. The church is on the corner of Houghton and Walnut opposite the high school.

Bulletin Notes. Trinity will start its second annual pre-school nursery with registration for Jewish children only this Monday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Parish Hall, Class, will start Friday, October 4 and will be held each Monday and Friday thereafter from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. under the direction of Mrs. Benjamin M. McMahon. Each mother who registers a child will be asked to assist. About 25 children are expected.

A church-wide reception for musicians will be held next Monday at 8:15 p.m. at the First Presbyterian church. A panel of 12 missionaries of various churches will discuss the church's global ministry. The Rev. Robert McIntyre will lead.

The Geneva Fellowship for young couples will hold a fall rally on Thursday, October 3 at the Second Presbyterian Church. Fourteen members of the Princeton's three Presbyterian churches are eligible to attend provided the combined ages of the couple "do not greatly exceed 75 years."

"Kenji Comes Home," a film, will be shown at 8 p.m. at the Oct. 3 meeting of the Methodistist Woman's Society of Christian Trinity's young people will have a social evening, this Friday at 8 p.m. The gro p is open to all boys and girls of the parish from ninth through 12th grades, and it will meet every Friday throughout the school year.

Midweek's Trinity parishoner with a car. The church has issued a gentle reminder to its members that parking lot is free to them only on Sundays, and that they have to pay on weekdays, just like anybody else.

These churches will send some of their choir and members who will serve as ushers. AMRON HOMES INC.
Route 130
Crabruny, N. J.

Dear Mr. Finn:

We are well satisfied with our new home and if we ever build another... AMRON will be the one to build it for us.

Thanks again,

Charles Schork

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schork could have picked any builder when they decided to build their new home. They had no obstacles. They owned their own lot, they knew what kind of home they wanted and they had the money to pay for it. And they had lots of time to select their builder. We were happy to talk to them... we gave them facts... NO HIGH-PRESSURE. Our price was fair... our quality was proven and we told them we were prepared to do the entire job from the ground up... not just a part or a "package deal." After careful consideration, the Schorks selected AMRON and now after occupancy of their new home, they recommended AMRON. We're justly proud!

AMRON offers complete building and finance service!

- We build complete or to any stage of construction.
- We arrange financing and sell your old home, too.
- We assist in designing your home and draw plans.
- We help you select a lot in the area you prefer.

REAL ESTATE OFFERINGS

SPECIALLY RECOMMENDED
PRINCETON

Trees, lawns and terraces have removed the newness, but not the freshness of this commodious, contemporary home. A beamed ceiling living room, a separate and sizeable dining room, a bright kitchen with hardily-used appliances, all make for limitless possibilities. Four, airy bedrooms with bountiful closet space and two baths provide convenience and real liveability. $28,500

OTHER RECOMMENDATIONS TO BUY

PRINCETON
 A brookside location and a number of large trees make this three bedroom split-level home most very desirable offering. The very spacious living room has a fireplace; there is a separate dining area and large equipped kitchen. The upper level has three spacious bedrooms and 1 1/2 baths. The lower level has a large playroom, a laundry and a lavatory. $34,500

PRINCETON
 This little gem is set amidst beautiful landscaped gardens. It has considerable appeal for the couple seeking a warm, old-fashioned home of housekeeping chores. #### A NICE BUY

For $23,000

A nice little house on a nice little lot for a nice little price adds up to a nice big buy for a family who can fit into three bedrooms. The living room has a pretty fireplace, built-in bookshelves and an adequate dining ell. The modern kitchen is equipped with dishwasher, disposal and electric stove. Two not-so-common assets of a house in this price bracket are a powder room and a lovely flagstone-floored screened porch. The attached garage has built-in storage units, while the basement is divided into utility and play areas. Let's but not least, the location is fine—a Township site that is peaceful and pretty but still within walking distance of schools, shops, station and University.

GOOD OUTSIDE, BETTER INSIDE

asking $35,000

This one story white house has an all-of-a-piece atmosphere, thanks to effective exterior landscaping (dogwood, evergreens, flowering shrubs, etc.) and imaginative interior decoration. Its comfort becomes apparent as you go from large living room with fireplace and roomy dining area, to efficient kitchen, big paneled family room—then back to the 3 separated bedrooms and two baths, noting touches like compartmentalized closets and many well-placed built-ins. In short, a tastefully successful collaboration between he and she planners!
